Prime Areas of Learning
Communication a	Personal, Social and Emotional Development			Physical Development
The Early Learning Goals
Listening, Attention and Understanding	Speaking	Self- Regulation	Managing Self	Building Relationships	Gross Motor Skills	Fine Motor Skills

Specific Areas of Learning
Literacy		Mathematics		Understanding the World			Expressive Arts and Design
	The Early Learning Goals
Comprehension	Word Reading	Writing	Number	Numerical Patterns	Past and Present	People, Culture and Communities	The Natural World	Creating with Materials	Being Imaginative and Expressive

The Characteristics of Effective Teaching and Learning

• Playing and exploring – children investigate and experience things, and 'have a go'

• Active learning – children concentrate and keep on trying if they encounter difficulties, and enjoy achievements

• Creating and thinking critically – children have and develop their own ideas, make links between ideas, and develop strategies for doing things

Playing and Exploring   Plan and think ahead about how they will explore or play with objects.     Guide their own thinking and actions by referring to visual aids or by talking to themselves while playing. For example, a child doing a jigsaw might whisper under their breath: "Where does that one go? – I need to find the big horse next." Make independent choices.     Bring their own interests and fascinations into early years settings. This helps them to develop their learning. Respond to new experiences that you bring to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their cot or mat when they want to sleep.     Begin to predict sequences because they know routines. For example, they may anticipate lunch when they see the table being set, or get their coat when the door to the outdoor area opens.     Show goal-directed behaviour. For example, babies may pull themselves up by using the edges of a low table to reach for a toy on top of the table.     Begin to correct their mistakes themselves. For example, instead of using increasing force to push a puzzle piece into the slot, they try another piece are difficult     Keep trying when things are difficult     Take part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup.     Solve real problems: for example, at tidy-up time, children know how top ut different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal. Check how well they are doing.     Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and		Realise that their actions have an effect on the world, so they want to keep repeating them.
Playing and ExploringGuide their own thinking and actions by referring to visual aids or by talking to themselves while playing. For example, a child doing a jigsaw might whisper under their breath: "Where does that one go? - I need to find the big horse next." Make independent choices.Bring their own interests and fascinations into early years settings. This helps them to develop their learning. Respond to new experiences that you bring to their attention.Active LearningParticipate in routines, such as going to their cot or mat when they want to sleep. Begin to predict sequences because they know routines. For example, they may anticipate lunch when they see the table being set, or get their coat when the door to the outdoor area opens.Show goal-directed behaviour. For example, babies may pull themselves up by using the edges of a low table to reach for a toy on top of the table. Begin to correct their mistakes themselves. For example, instead of using increasing force to push a puzzle piece into the slot, they try another piece to see if it will fit. Keep trying when things are difficultThinking and Creating CriticallyTake part in simple pretend play. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how top put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal. Check how well they are doing. Solve real problems: for example, to that they are doing. Solve real problems: for example, to that they down and to due stand another perspective. For example, a child doile on a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child doile-playing the Playing and Exploring   a jigsaw might whisper under their breath: "Where does that one go? - I need to find the big horse next." Make independent choices.     Bring their own interests and fascinations into early years settings. This helps them to develop their learning. Respond to new experiences that you bring to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their cot or mat when they want to sleep.     Begin to predict sequences because they know routines. For example, they may anticipate lunch when they see the table being set, or get their coat when the door to the outdoor area opens.     Show goal-directed behaviour. For example, babies may pull themselves up by using the edges of a low table to reach for a toy on top of the table.     Begin to correct their mistakes themselves. For example, instead of using increasing force to push a puzzle piece into the slot, they try another piece to see if it will fit.     Keep trying when things are difficult     Take part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup.     Sort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal.     Check how well they are doing.     Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries.     Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to unde Make independent choices.     Bring their own interests and fascinations into early years settings. This helps them to develop their learning. Respond to new experiences that you bring to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their attention. <th></th> <td></td>
Bring their own interests and fascinations into early years settings. This helps them to develop their learning. Respond to new experiences that you bring to their attention.     Active Learning   Participate in routines, such as going to their cot or mat when they want to sleep.     Begin to predict sequences because they know routines. For example, they may anticipate lunch when they see the table being set, or get their coat when the door to the outdoor area opens.     Show goal-directed behaviour. For example, babies may pull themselves up by using the edges of a low table to reach for a toy on top of the table.     Begin to correct their mistakes themselves. For example, instead of using increasing force to push a puzzle piece into the slot, they try another piece to see if it will fit.     Keep trying when things are difficult     Take part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup.     Sort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets.     Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal.     Check how well they are doing.     Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries.	Playing and Exploring experiences that you bring to their attention.     Participate in routines, such as going to their cot or mat when they want to sleep.     Begin to predict sequences because they know routines. For example, they may anticipate lunch when they see the table being set, or get their coat when the door to the outdoor area opens.     Show goal-directed behaviour. For example, babies may pull themselves up by using the edges of a low table to reach for a toy on top of the table.     Begin to correct their mistakes themselves. For example, instead of using increasing force to push a puzzle piece into the slot, they try another piece to see if it will fit.     Keep trying when things are difficult     Take part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup.     Sort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal.     Check how well they are doing.     Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries.     Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the Active LearningParticipate in routines, such as going to their cot or mat when they want to sleep. Begin to predict sequences because they know routines. For example, they may anticipate lunch when they see the table being set, or get their coat when the door to the outdoor area opens. Show goal-directed behaviour. For example, babies may pull themselves up by using the edges of a low table to reach for a toy on Active LearningBegin to predict sequences because they know routines. For example, they may anticipate lunch when they see the table being set, or get their coat when the door to the outdoor area opens.Show goal-directed behaviour. For example, babies may pull themselves up by using the edges of a low table to reach for a toy on top of the table.Begin to correct their mistakes themselves. For example, instead of using increasing force to push a puzzle piece into the slot, they try another piece to see if it will fit. Keep trying when things are difficultThinking and Creating CriticallyTake part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup.Solve real problems: for example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal. Check how well they are doing.Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the Active Learningor get their coat when the door to the outdoor area opens. Show goal-directed behaviour. For example, babies may pull themselves up by using the edges of a low table to reach for a toy on top of the table. Begin to correct their mistakes themselves. For example, instead of using increasing force to push a puzzle piece into the slot, they try another piece to see if it will fit. Keep trying when things are difficultThinking and Creating CriticallyTake part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup. Sort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal. Check how well they are doing. Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the Active Learning   Show goal-directed behaviour. For example, babies may pull themselves up by using the edges of a low table to reach for a toy on top of the table.     Begin to correct their mistakes themselves. For example, instead of using increasing force to push a puzzle piece into the slot, they try another piece to see if it will fit.     Keep trying when things are difficult     Thinking and Creating Critically   Take part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup.     Sort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal.     Check how well they are doing.     Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries.     Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the Initial constructionInitial constructionThinking and Creating CriticallySolve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries.Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the		•
Begin to correct their mistakes themselves. For example, instead of using increasing force to push a puzzle piece into the slot, they try another piece to see if it will fit.     Keep trying when things are difficult     Take part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup.     Sort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal.     Check how well they are doing.     Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries.     Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the	Active Learning try another piece to see if it will fit. Keep trying when things are difficultTake part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup.Sort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal. Check how well they are doing.Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the Keep trying when things are difficult       Take part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup.       Sort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal.       Check how well they are doing.       Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries.       Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the		Begin to correct their mistakes themselves. For example, instead of using increasing force to push a puzzle piece into the slot, they
Take part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a pretend cup.Thinking and Creating CriticallyTake part in simple pretend play. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal. Check how well they are doing.Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the		try another piece to see if it will fit.
Thinking and Creating CriticallySort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal. Check how well they are doing.Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the		Keep trying when things are difficult
Sort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets. Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal. Check how well they are doing.Check how well they are doing.Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the		Take part in simple pretend play. For example, they might use an object like a brush to pretend to brush their hair, or 'drink' from a
Thinking and Creating Critically   Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal. Check how well they are doing.     Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the		pretend cup.
Thinking and Creating Critically     Check how well they are doing.       Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries.       Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the		Sort materials. For example, at tidy-up time, children know how to put different construction materials in separate baskets.
Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the		Review their progress as they try to achieve a goal.
Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the	Thinking and Creating Critically	Check how well they are doing.
second, and finally a third. Finally, they might check at the end that everyone has the same number of strawberries. Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the	Thinking and Creating Critically	Solve real problems: for example, to share nine strawberries between three friends, they might put one in front of each, then a Use pretend play to think beyond the 'here and now' and to understand another perspective. For example, a child role-playing the

Topic and Text Overview

	Autumn 1.1	Autumn 1.2	Spring 2.1	Spring 2.2	Summer 3.1	Summer 3.2
	Magic	Magical Me		Traditional tales The Big, V		Wide World
	Starting School	Sparkle and Shine	Doctors & Nurses	Once Upon a Time	Let's Move!	The Go Jetters go to Africa
Week 1	The colour monster goes to school	Binny's Diwali	My Daddy is a Nurse	Little Red Riding Hood	Emma Jane's Aeroplane	Handa's Surprise by Eileen Browne
	F	Exploring Autumn	Doctors & Nurses	Once Upon a Time	Happy Eid
Week 2		Funnybones	A superhero like you – Dr Ranj	The Gingerbread Man	The Most Exciting Eid
	All About Me	Happy Birthday	Fire! Fire! Fire!	Once Upon a Time	Marvellous Machines	Exploring the Jungle
Week 3	It's Ok To Be Different	Kippers' birthday	My Mummy is a Firefighter	Goldilocks and the three bears	Dig, Dig, Digging	Giraffes Can't Dance
	My Family		Looking After Animals	Fee, Fi, Fo, Thumb	Ready, Steady Grow!
Week 4	The Family Book		The Tiger Who Came To Tea	Jack and the Beanstalk	The Very Hungry Caterpillar
	I'm special!	Winter Wonderland	Looking After Animals	Signs of spring!	Pirates - Splash!	Under the Sea
k 5	Superheroes
Week 5	Suportato	Stick Man	Dear Zoo	We're Going on a Bear Hunt	Pirates Love Underpants	Rainbow Fish
-	Supertato			Mad About Minibeasts
	Abracadabra!		Cops & Robbers		Dangerous Dinosaurs
Week 6	Room on the Broom		Busy people: Police officer		Dinosaurs Love Underpants
7		Merry Christmas	To Infinity and Beyond			Safari
Week 7		The Snowman	Look Up!			The Lion Inside